World Series Morning Routine This Week:

The Cooperstown Symposium on Baseball and American Culture, 1999 Peter M. Rutkoff, 2000-06-16 This is an anthology of 23 papers that were presented at the Eleventh Cooperstown Symposium on Baseball and American Culture held June 9-11, 1999 and co-sponsored by the State University of New York at Oneonta and the National Baseball Hall of Fame and Museum. The papers focus on the antecedents of baseball and the early history of America's national pastime and are divided into five parts: Baseball and the American Imagination; Baseball and American Culture; Baseball and American Society; Baseball and American Business; and Baseball and the Fan. The preface is by series editor Alvin L. Hall and an introduction is provided by the editor of the volume Peter M. Rutkoff. Hearings United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Labor and Public Welfare, 1967. Inventing Baseball Heroes Amber Roessner, 2014-06-09 In Inventing Baseball Heroes Amber Roessner examines hero crafting in sports journalism through an incisive analysis of the work surrounding two of baseball's most enduring personalities: Detroit Tigers outfielder Ty Cobb and New York Giants pitcher Christy Mathewson. While other scholars have demonstrated that the mythmakers of the Golden Age of Sports Writing (1920-1930) manufactured heroes out of baseball players for the mainstream media, Roessner probes further with a penetrating look at how sportswriters compromised emerging professional standards of journalism as they crafted heroic tales that sought to teach American boys how to be successful players in the game of life. Cobb and Mathewson, respectively stereotyped as the game's sinner and saint, helped shape their public images in the mainstream press through their relationship with four of the most prominent sports journalists of the time: Grantland Rice, F. C. Lane, Ring Lardner, and John N. Wheeler. Roessner traces the interactions between the athletes and the reporters, delving into newsgathering strategies as well as rapport-building techniques and ultimately revealing an inherent tension in objective sports reporting in the era. Inventing Baseball Heroes will be of interest to scholars of American history, sports history, cultural studies, and communication. Its interdisciplinary approach provides a broad understanding of the role sports journalists played in the production of American heroes. Twain's Rulers and Statesmen of the World Series, 1973. Living out of Bounds Steven J. Overman, 2008-11-30 Despite some enormous differences in salary among professional athletes, most aspects of their daily lives remain surprisingly constant across sports and income levels. In Living out of Bounds, author Steven J. Overman mines a wide array of sports biographies, autobiographies, memoirs, and diaries to construct a representative picture of the athlete's life. In the course of the work, a portrait emerges that transcends the individual lives lived. The shared experiences of devoted training, travel, and hotels and of tension within and beyond the clubhouse or gym force us to appreciate the often oppressive reality of the sporting life at the same time that the individual lives lived also provide us with a glimpse of the rewards that make sports so compelling to audiences and athletes across America. Hearings, Reports and Prints of the Senate Committee on Labor and Public Welfare United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Labor and Public Welfare, 1968.
