Abstract

^aSource: 1980 California Tax Authority Bureau, based on unpublished confidential information.

Abstract: Staphylococcus aureus is a leading cause of nosocomial infection. The purpose of this study was to determine the prevalence of S. aureus in the hospital environment and to identify risk factors for colonization. A total of 100 samples were collected from various hospital environments. The results showed that 60% of the samples were positive for S. aureus. The highest prevalence was found in the intensive care unit (ICU) and the operating room. Risk factors for colonization included contact with medical equipment, contact with healthcare workers, and contact with other patients. The study highlights the importance of infection control measures in the hospital environment.
