Waiting in Christian Traditions Joanne Robinson, 2015-12-17 Christians wait for prayers to be answered for an afterlife in heaven for the Virgin Mary to appear and for God to speak They wait to be liberated from oppression to be saved or born again for Easter morning to dawn for healing for conversion and for baptism Waiting and the disappointment and hope that often accompany it are explained in terms that are at first glance remarkably invariant across Christian traditions what will happen will happen on God's time A study of sources from across Christian traditions shows that there is considerable complexity beneath this surface claim Understandings of free will and personal agency alongside shifts in institutional and theological commitments change the ways waiting is understood and valued Waiting is often considered a positive state to be endured as long as God wills and that fundamental understanding helps keep the promises at the heart of Christianity alive Scholars have long overlooked the problem and promise of waiting despite or perhaps because of its prevalence Indeed there are relatively few mystics few who have undergone sudden conversion and few who have attained saintly status Many however have waited and that problem remains prominent and its solutions remain influential in Christian traditions today
