

MIDTERM: In Class on Monday 9/10
Study Guide

Basics:

Total time allowed: Full Class Period.

Requirements:

1. Something to write with and paper. If you have a "blue book" from the quizzes, you can reuse that.

Material Covered: All Material from Weekly Modules 1-6 including the lectures, all textbook reading, and the primary sources.

Expectation: The midterm was intended to be a closed notes exam; however, given the disruption caused by Hurricane Ian and the week of class we missed, I've decided the midterm will be open notes just like the quizzes.

Midterm Breakdown:

10 Multiple-Choice Questions worth 2pts each for 20pts, 1 short-answer opinion question (requiring a paragraph or 5-10 sentences) worth 10pts, and one more traditional short-answer question (requiring two paragraphs or 10-20 sentences) worth 20pts for a total of 50pts.

To consider for the Multiple Choice:

- Week 1: The Historian and the Historian's Craft (Week #1 PP+ Textbook pp. 2-25+ Primary Sources).
 - What's the difference between primary and secondary sources? Can you list some examples of primary vs. secondary sources? How do historians view each?
 - Immerwahr believes "greatness is moving target." What does he mean by that?
 - Why is the debate about the "peopling of the Americas" contentious?
 - Explain the theories that cover the peopling of Americas.
 - What is the difference between historians, archeologists, and anthropologists?
 - How did native people interact with their environment before the arrival of Europeans?
 - What made the civilization of Cahokia unique among the civilizations of pre-European North America?
 - Big Idea: Much of Native American culture and history prior to the arrival of Europeans is lost; however, it is possible to appreciate the diversity and similarities of Native American culture. They were both like and unlike the Europeans who came later. Perhaps most importantly, both coveted the land and its resources, and this would lead to conflict between the two.
- Week 2: Spain and the New World (Week #2 PP+ Textbook pp. 28-51+ Primary Sources).
 - Why were Europeans eager to explore the Atlantic in the late 15th century?
