Lions, Camels, and Meats: Episode 2

Directions: Before viewing the film, read each question below so you know what information and ideas you should be looking for as you watch Episode 2. Discuss your answers to each question by providing as many facts, details, and examples as possible to answer each question. Be prepared to discuss your answers with the class and to use them as you work on a project.

1. According to David Diamond, what are the three major elements that separate the world's "haves" from the "have-nots"?

Answer: Lions, camels, and meat.

2. David Diamond refers to the people of New Guinea as "having the world's most culturally diverse and adaptable people in the world", yet they have much less than modern Americans. Diamond has developed a theory about what has caused these huge developmental, economic, technological, and language differences to develop. What theory is Diamond referring to? Give several examples from the film to support Diamond's theory.

Answer: With very few words Diamond discusses the people living in the Middle East (Episode 1) recently and all of their resources compared to the relatively small amount of resources provided by the people across of New Guinea, and how having more food resources and the ability to store them led people to harvest more agriculture and less reliance on being hunter-gatherers. While in fact, allowed societies to develop especially when could improve and develop technologies in a society of wars. Societies that were not blessed with growing conditions that support livestock such crops as allow for their own, they have storage are simply not as successful at farming, then most societies in only use hunting and gathering for survival.

3. For thousands of years, people have been cultivating crops. Discuss the process used to domesticate crops and some plants that yielded bigger, better harvests.

Answer: By domesticating crops, we mean that people interfere with what naturally happens in nature by growing and harvesting at specific times, allowing only the biggest, tallest, widest in harvest seeds from the crops, and selecting individual plants for use in breeding the next year's crops to increase the harvest.

4. According to Diamond, livestock other plays a significant role in a civilization's ability to become rich and powerful. What did the domestication of animals help people? Give several examples.

Answer: With very few words Diamond is saying animals that are so used and for their milk as well as providing other resources such as skins for clothing, using the animals as helps all handicrafting, and using the animals for transportation or workers. In addition, animals were important in farming, because they could eat the stubble from the fields and provide the fields with fertilizer in the same time.
