The Online Advertising Tax Christian Fuchs, 2018-06-20 Google and Facebook currently control close to two thirds of global advertising revenue. While dominating the online advertising market, these two companies have thus far avoided paying adequate taxes. This CAMRI policy brief presents a new policy innovation, the online advertising tax. Considering the key role of user activity and user data for the value of Google and Facebook's services, it explains how digital advertising companies' revenues could be taxed based on the respective country in which targeted users are located. The author reviews existing policy arguments and policy options and sets out practical steps to ensure that tax avoidance by online advertising companies is mitigated. Furthermore, he illustrates how tax revenues could be used to support public service internet platforms.

Streaming music services have exploded in popularity in the past few years variously raising optimism and concern about their impacts on recorded music revenue On the one hand streaming services allow sellers to engage in bundling with the promise of increasing revenues profits and consumer surplus Successful bundling would indeed translate some of the interest in music not generating revenue through individual track sales unpaid consumption and deadweight loss into willingness to pay for the bundled offering On the other hand streaming may displace traditional individual track sales Even if they displace sales streams may however still raise overall revenue if the streaming payment is large enough in relation to the extent of sales displacement We make use of the growth in Spotify use during the years 2013 2015 to measure its impact on unpaid consumption and on the sales of recorded music We find that Spotify use displaces permanent downloads In particular 137 Spotify streams appear to reduce track sales by 1 unit Consistent with the existing literature our analysis also shows that Spotify displaces music piracy Given the current industry s revenue from track sales 0 82 per sale and the average payment received per stream 0 007 per stream our sales displacement estimates show that the losses from displaced sales are roughly outweighed by the gains in streaming revenue In other words our analysis shows that interactive streaming appears to be revenue neutral for the recorded music industry The Automatic Customer John Warrillow,2015-02-05
