Efficiency Board,1924 Introduction Fridtjof

Nansen, 1897 In September of 1893 Norwegian zoologist Fridtjof Nansen and a crew manned the schooner Fram intending to drift frozen in the Arctic pack ice to the North Pole. When it became clear that they would miss the pole Nansen and his companion Hjalmar Johansen struck off by themselves. Racing the shrinking pack ice they attempted by dog sled to go farthest north. They survived a winter in a moss hut eating walruses and polar bears and the public assumed they were dead. In the spring of 1896 after three years of trekking and having made it to within four degrees of the pole they returned to safety. Nansen's narrative stands with the best writing on polar exploration.

Introduction to Queueing Networks

Erol Gelenbe, Guy Pujolle, 1998-07-07 Introduction to Queueing Networks Second Edition Erol Gelenbe Duke University North Carolina USA and Guy Pujolle University of Versailles France. With new concepts emerging in recent literature this is a timely update to a highly successful and well established first edition. Queueing networks are particularly important as digital communications continue to grow this text provides a thorough and comprehensive introduction to the concept of applying mathematical queueing network theory to data communications. New additions G nets i.e. generalized or Gelenbe queueing networks which allow the analysis of on line network control functions such as traffic re-routing, discrete time queueing networks with application to ATM networks. As leading authorities in this area the authors focus on the practical approach where aspects of queueing theory are applied directly to communications systems and networks. Included is a series of exercises and examples at the end of each chapter as well as a fully annotated bibliography. This book is of particular interest to communications and computer engineers and is essential reading for network managers and administrators. It will also benefit students and researchers in the area of networks as well as Web server administrators and personal computer users.
