Sustainable Materials with Both Eyes Open Julian M. Allwood, Jonathan M. Cullen, Mark A. Carruth, 2012 This is a follow up book to the author s Sustainable Energy Without the Hot Air which had a large influence on both government policy and public opinion of how we should plan our energy for the future This book faces up to the impacts of making materials in the 21st century We are already making materials well but demand keeps growing and we need to plan for a sustainable material future The steel and aluminium industries alone account for nearly 30 per cent of global emissions and demand is rising The world target is to reduce industry s carbon emissions by 50 per cent by 2050 However projections are that world demand for materials will double by 2050 so to meet our emissions target we have to achieve a 4 fold reduction in emissions per unit of material used industry will have to make huge changes not just to the processes involved but to the entire product life cycle This book presents a vision of change for how future generations can still use steel cement plastics etc but with less impact on the environment First it is a wake up call then it is a solutions manual The solutions presented here are ahead of the game now By providing an evidence based vision of change this book can play a significant role in influencing our energy future
