What's Space Got to Do With It?: An Interstellar Guide to Success Shelli Brunswick, 2025-10-10

What's Space Got To Do With It? An Interstellar Guide to Success is more than a book. It's a practical blueprint for transforming vision into action. Building on the success of the first volume, 10 Life Lessons for Personal Growth, this second book takes readers from inspiration to execution. Anchored by four transformative pillars: Leadership, Awareness, Access, and Action, it equips readers with the mindset and strategies needed to thrive in uncertain, rapidly evolving environments. Drawing from an accomplished career in aerospace and the global space ecosystem, along with insights from 30 global thought leaders, the book reveals how resilience, systems thinking, and collaboration can unlock opportunity, accelerate innovation, and create lasting impact. You'll discover Leadership Resilience: How to lead with courage, clarity, and bold vision in uncertain times; Awareness Access: How visibility, role models, and purpose-built pathways expand opportunities for all; Action: Practical tools for learning, networking, and mentorship that transform potential into measurable results. Featuring leaders in aerospace, technology, policy, entrepreneurship, and the arts, this book proves that space is not just about exploration. It's about empowerment, opportunity, and possibility. Whether you're an entrepreneur, educator, policymaker, or dreamer, What's Space Got To Do With It? An Interstellar Guide to Success equips you with the mindset, models, and motivation to ignite your next mission.

Featured voices include Her Excellency Ameenah Gurib Fakim, former President of Mauritius, and biodiversity scientist shares how global leadership rooted in science can drive planetary change. His Excellency Dr Mohamed Al Aseeri, CEO of the Bahrain Space Agency, reflects on the role of leadership and national vision in advancing space initiatives in emerging economies. Simonetta Di Pippo, former Director of UNOOSA and current professor at Bocconi University, brings deep insight into multilateral collaboration and gender equity in space policy. Dr Anino Emuwa, founder of 100 Women Davos, emphasizes the importance of intentional networks and finance to open doors for underrepresented leaders. Alma Okpalefe, Executive Director of World Space Week Association and one of the 100 Women of Davos, reveals how space can spark inclusive innovation across Africa. Rod Pyle, renowned space historian, NASA commentator, and author, connects the pioneering spirit of the Apollo era to today's rapidly evolving commercial space landscape. Through personal reflections, global stories, and strategic guidance, this book bridges the gap between space innovation and everyday leadership. It encourages readers to think expansively, act boldly, and lead with purpose.

Endorsements for the Series: Shelli Brunswick has created more than a guide; she has crafted a catalyst for global leadership. This book shows that the mindset of space exploration—visionary, bold, and inclusive—can help us lead with purpose and shape a future where opportunity knows no boundaries. Her Excellency Dr Rosalva Arteaga Serrano, Former President of Ecuador, Shelli's voice is a beacon for leaders seeking to explore, innovate, and inspire. Her book reminds us that the same qualities that drive interstellar success—curiosity, resilience, and collaboration—are the keys to transformational leadership here on Earth. Digital Exposés of Extreme-Right Shock Channels Caryn Coatney, 2026-01-22 This book takes an in depth look at journalists developing practices to expose the extreme right networks that receive many millions of views across the dark web and mainstream platforms The book draws on ideas about journalism's role as a digital guardian or a gatekeeper which can engage audiences about the need to counter viral terror content and white supremacist material This rare case study is focused on journalists reporting and news audiences related comments about the increasingly prevalent shock channels on social media Previously journalistic stories have been critiqued for sensationally promoting extreme right leaders This book shows how journalists are adapting digital techniques to start countering the extreme right's subcultures including a twisted buzz fake news sites and stylised violence that frequently targets democratic reporters Book chapters take a deep dive into the interconnected and dark web archives journalists related reporting and subscribers comments in Australia the United Kingdom and the United States It examines the ethical debates about the best professional practices for exposing the extreme right networks going forward The book finds three main elements of journalists gatekeeper roles Firstly journalists used popular video sharing platforms such as Instagram and YouTube to expose white supremacist influencers Secondly they developed long form writing styles to explain the absurd aesthetics of extreme right subcultures that have included beauty queen pageants dating sites and playlists on music streaming giants Thirdly reporters revealed how they have developed multiple and deep undercover personas to uncover dark web chatrooms and the related youth oriented events This book asserts that the successful news exposés have been characterised by an engaged focus on readers demands for journalism that demonstrates transparency trust and corrective information to enhance social cohesion This book is intended to be a useful resource to researchers scholars and students of journalism communication media and politics as well as professionals already operating within the field of journalism

Reader Bot Naomi S. Baron, 2026-01-20 What happens to human reading when AI bots can do it for us Explosive developments in artificial intelligence have awed everyday users with the technology's ability to draw do computer coding and especially to write Those AI generated essays and poems legal briefs and responses to requests for information are all visible evidence of large language models at work What we don't see is the critical prior step before it can write AI needs to read While AI's written outcomes are remarkably similar to what a diligent student lawyer or researcher might produce AI doesn't read the way that humans do Now that AI is proving an adept reader what happens to our own reading skills and motivations especially at a time when both voluntary and school reading are increasingly on the decline We have learned that when we let chatbots write for us there are pros and cons to handing over our virtual pens It s critical that we also think through the consequences of relinquishing reading a deeply human activity to bots What do we stand to gain and lose when we let AI read for us Tracing the intersecting trajectories of AI and reading Reader Bot tackles this vital question revealing why we must be thoughtful about how we welcome AI as reader into our lives Peak Higher Ed Bryan

Alexander,2026-01-06 Mapping out the strategic future of higher education Over the past decade American colleges and universities have seen enrollment decline campuses close programs cut faculty and staff laid off and public confidence erode In Peak Higher Ed futurist Bryan Alexander forecasts what the next decade might hold if we continue down this path He argues that the United States has passed its high water mark for postsecondary education and now faces a critical turning point How will higher ed institutions respond to this wave of change and crisis Combining data driven research with scenario modeling Alexander outlines a powerful framework for understanding what led to this moment declining birthrates surging student debt rising tuition shifting political winds and growing skepticism about the value of a college degree He maps out how these forces if left unchecked could continue to reshape academia by shrinking its footprint narrowing its mission and jeopardizing its role in addressing the planet s most pressing challenges from climate change to artificial intelligence Alexander explores how institutions might adapt or recover presenting two possible futures a path of managed descent and a more hopeful course of reinvention Peak Higher Ed examines the fraying of the college for all consensus the long shadow of pandemic era disruptions and the political polarization that has placed universities in the crosshairs Written for educators policymakers students and anyone invested in the future of higher learning this book offers a deeply informed unflinching look at the road ahead and the choices that will determine whether colleges and universities retreat from their peak or rise to a new one Value Co-Creation in Web 3.0 Robin Qiu,2026-01-01 This book explores the architecture and framework for co

Youtube War Cori Dauber,2009-11-30 There is a vast literature on the potential for new technologies to create a Revolution in Military Affairs or networked warfare

but that is a discussion of the impact of military technology on the way the force itself can be used Today there is a question regarding the impact of new communication and information technologies in the hands of civilians some of whom are combatants on the environment in which the force will be used This monograph argues that the impact of these technologies has been and will be great enough that the way they are shaping the battlefield needs to be understood Waging war against terrorists or insurgents using a terrorist playbook is a qualitatively different enterprise from earlier wars By definition terrorists are too weak to fight successful conventional battles They fight to shape the perceptions and attitudes of the public a battle over the public's will to continue fighting whether that is the indigenous public insurgents seek to intimidate or the domestic American public they seek to influence so as to force counterinsurgents to withdraw from the battlefield prematurely And in the modern world this will be a battle to shape media coverage Terrorist attacks ought to be understood as consciously crafted media events and while that has always been the case today it is more true than ever before in two ways First the terrorist attack is itself often designed and intended for the cameras Terrorist attacks are designed for an audience Their true target is not that which is blown up that item or those people for that is merely a stage prop What is really being targeted are those watching at home The goal after all is to have a psychological effect to terrorize and it isn't possible to have such an effect on the dead This means that the terrorist attack is a media event in the sense that it is designed to attract the attention of the media the same way that a political campaign event is a media event designed to attract the media's attention and thus garner coverage When we discuss media attention we are really first and foremost talking about television and we are really then talking about gaining the attention of the cameras and the way to do that is to provide good visuals however those are defined in a particular context Understanding the interaction between media needs and the way terrorist attacks satisfy those needs is essential This is the case because developing strategies to fight an insurgent enemy has become more challenging as today's wars are taking place in a radically new information and media environment and today's terrorists and insurgents have been brilliant at capitalizing on this environment in their operational art For today terrorism is a media event in a second sense Terrorists and insurgents are now no longer dependent upon the professional media to communicate In fact to an unprecedented degree the professional media have become dependent upon them This is due to technological developments which permit any terrorist to film edit and upload their actions virtually in real time whether Western media are there to serve witness or not Several new technologies all of which have become relatively mature at relatively the same time together have made this new information environment and it is this environment on which terrorists and insurgents are capitalizing An information or communication technology becomes mature when it meets several criteria First it must be available off the shelf Second it must be affordable something within financial reach of a decent percentage of the population Third critically it must be small enough to be easily portable Fourth it must be available in most of the world and not just in the developed countries
