How Canadians Communicate V David Taras,Christopher Waddell,2016-03-15 Fewer Canadians than ever are lacing up skates swimming lengths at the pool practicing their curve ball and experiencing the thrill of competition However despite a decline in active participation Canadians spend enormous amounts of time and money on sports as fans and followers of sporting events and sports culture Never has media coverage of sports been more exhaustive and never has it been more driven by commercial interests and the need to fuel consumerism on which corporate profits depend But the power plays now occurring in the arena of sports are by no means solely a matter of money At issue as well in the media capture of sports are the values that inform our daily lives the physical and emotional health of the population and the symbols so long central to a sense of Canadian identity Writing from a variety of perspectives the contributors to this collection set out to explore the impact of the media on our reception of and attitudes toward sports to unpack the meanings that sports have for us as citizens and consumers Some contributors probe the function of sports as spectacle the escalation of violence controversies over drug use and the media s coverage of tragic deaths while others shed light on the way in which the media serve to transform sports into a vehicle for the expression of identity and nationalism The goal is not to score points but to prompt critical discussion of why sports matter in Canadian life and culture and how they contribute to the construction of identity     Principles of Successful Coaching by an Old School Coach—Ron Mayberry Ron Mayberry, 2017-05-15 The first question anyone should have for me is Why would anyone be interested in an autobiography about my life as a coach That would be a fair question since I haven't won any national championships nor have I been in demand for speaking engagements If you compare my coaching record to others my won lost record doesn't stand out With that said let me explain what I have to offer and then you decide This book is not just about my life as a coach but rather the lessons I have learned through my coaching career Being old school is about coaching kids and young adults not a particular sport gender age or level of play I have coached on every level of play that exists and coached both genders on those levels along with almost every sport that a school offers     Horizon 2030: Innovative Applications of Heart Rate Variability Sylvain Laborde, Julian F. Thayer, Emma Mosley, Clint Bellenger, 2022-04-25     Making the Majors Eric M. Leifer, 1995 In this in depth look at major league sports Eric Leifer traces the growth and development of major leagues in baseball football basketball and hockey and predicts fundamental changes as the majors pursue international expansion He shows how every past expansion of sports publics has been accompanied by significant changes in the way sporting competition is organized With each reorganization the majors have created teams closer in ability bringing repetition to competition across time only to expand and energize the public's search for differences between teams and for events that disrupt the repetitive flow The phenomenal success of league sports Leifer writes rests on their ability to manufacture inequalities for fans to latch on to without jeopardizing the equalities that draw fans in Leifer supports his theory with historical detail and statistical analysis He examines the special concerns of league organizers in pursuing competitive balance and presents a detailed analysis of how large city domination has been undermined in the modern era of Major League Baseball Using games from the four major league sports he then shows how fans can themselves affect the course of competition In NFL football for example fans account for nearly all of the persisting inequality in team performance The possibility of sustaining inequality among equals emerges from the cross pressures that fans and leagues place on competition With substantial data in hand Leifer asks the essential question facing the leagues today how can they sustain a situation that depends entirely on simultaneous equality and contention one in which fan involvement may evaporate as soon as one team dominates His answer has significant implications for the future of major league sports both nationally and internationally     Radio Daily, 1938 vols for 1945 include Shows of tomorrow annual ed     Dearborn Independent, 1926     Army and Navy Register, 1923     Athletic Journal, 1927 Vols 9 10 include proceedings of the 8th 11th annual meeting of the American Football Coaches Association and of the 3d 6th annual meeting of the National Association of the Basketball Coaches of the United States     Editor & Publisher, 1927 The fourth estate     Herald and Presbyter, 1900     The International Operating Engineer, 1925     Flight, 1923     The Wisconsin Farmer, 1902     Association Men, 1927     The Law of Life Anna McClure
