The UN's Role in Nation-Building from the Congo to Iraq, 2005 The first volume of this series dealt with the American experience with nation building defined therein as the use of armed force in the aftermath of a crisis to promote a transition to democracy It examined eight instances in which the United States took the lead in such endeavors This volume deals with the United Nations experience with comparable operations examining eight instances in which the United Nations led multinational forces toward generally similar ends For the United States post Cold War nation building had distant precursors in the American occupations of Germany and Japan in the aftermath of World War II and its role in fostering the emergence of democratic regimes there For the United Nations the comparable precursor was in the early 1960s in the newly independent Belgian Congo The Republic of the Congo failed almost from the moment of its birth Within days of the Congo's independence its army mutinied the remaining white administrators fled the administration and the economy collapsed Belgian paratroops invaded and the mineral rich province of Katanga seceded These developments cast a serious shadow over the prospects for the successful and peaceful completion of Africa's decolonization at that point just gathering momentum On July 14 1960 acting with unusual speed the Security Council passed the first of a series of resolutions authorizing the deployment of UN led military forces to assist the Republic of the Congo in restoring order and eventually in suppressing the rebellion in Katanga and Statebuilding Patrice McMahon,Jon Western,2012-02-07 This book brings together policymakers and academics to analyse the international community's performance in post war statebuilding projects In the past twenty years statebuilding has emerged as a centerpiece of international efforts to stabilize violent conflicts From the Balkans to Iraq to Afghanistan it has become widely accepted that statebuilding defined as the development of transparent and accountable political institutions stable and sustainable economic structures professional public administrations and civilian controlled security services is essential to the long term stability of post conflict settlements The International Community and Statebuilding brings together senior level policymakers and academics in order to analyse the international community's performance in post war statebuilding projects Filling an important gap in the existing body of work on this topic the contributors explore how international state builders have attempted to negotiate the intersections of multilateralism competing strategic priorities and agendas organizational complexity and domestic politics This book will be of much interest to students of statebuilding peacebuilding war and conflict studies and International Relations in general The Morality of War - Second Edition Brian Orend,2013-09-10 The first edition of The Morality of War was one of the most widely read and successful books ever written on the topic In this second edition Brian Orend builds on the substantial strengths of the first adding important new material on cyber warfare drone attacks the wrap up of Iraq and Afghanistan conflicts in Libya and Syria and protracted struggles like the Arab Israeli conflict Updated and streamlined throughout the book offers new research tools and case studies while keeping the winning blend of theory and history featured in the first edition This book remains an engaging and comprehensive examination of the ethics and practice of war and peace in today s world United Nations as Peacekeeper and Nation-builder Li Lin Chang,2005 Survival 49.2 Dana Allin,2023-05-31 First published in 2007 This book explores the complicity of democratic states from the global North in state terrorism in the global South

Symposium, Nation-building ,2008 The RAND History of Nation-building James Dobbins,2003 A United Nations for the 21st Century: from Reaction to Prevention Detlev Wolter,2007 This book analyzes the achievements of the UN World Summit of September 2005 in the field of conflict prevention human security and the advancement of the security development nexus The book examines the Summit Outcome Document which contains important general endorsements of the objective to strengthen conflict prevention capacities at the UN and fully supports the mission of the Special Advisor of the Secretary General on the Prevention of Genocide This document commits all Member States for the first time to develop a notion of human security that recognizes that all individuals in particular vulnerable people are entitled to freedom from fear and freedom from want It embraces the concept of a responsibility to protect against genocide ethnic cleansing and crimes against humanity The book looks at how the newly established Peacebuilding Commission can play an important overall preventive role in particular by ensuring that post conflict countries do not relapse into armed conflict It suggests the upcoming Comprehensive Report on Conflict Prevention by the UN Secretary General and a new General Assembly Resolution should operationalize and implement the shift from reaction to prevention The United Nations for the 21st Century supports the call for a special summit meeting in 2010 on conflict prevention and human security with the objective to adopt a Global Action Plan on Conflict Prevention and Human Security which should specify concrete agreements for allocating the resources necessary to bring peace planning conflict prevention and peacebuilding strategies to fruition

Strategic Studies Quarterly ,2008 EU-UN Cooperation in Peacebuilding Catriona Gourlay,2009 This report explores the partnership between the EU and the UN in peacebuilding It shows that although both organizations employ a mix of crisis management instruments and aid intended to address structural risk factors there is little agreement on what works and how these instruments should be combined It confirms that the European Commission funding relationship with the UN is increasingly significant in fragile states while policies are not always aligned This report argues that the key to strengthening operational partnerships is to move the needs assessment planning priority setting and resource allocation to the country level and to ensure that assistance is controlled by a partnership of national and international actors back cover
