Centralization of Financial Regulation Kai Gehring, 2011 Seminar paper from the year 2010 in the subject Economics Monetary theory and policy grade 1.0 University of Mannheim course Wirtschaftspolitik language English abstract Financial regulation has played an unfavorable role in the financial crisis Many reform proposals conclude from its failure that there is a need for more and tougher rules Group G30 2009 Consolidating existing regulatory bodies and a centralization of authorities seem to be the ubiquitous answer of many politicians In the European Union EU a reform proposal has gained support by the European parliament EP and the European Commission EC which would mean additional competences and staff for European bureaucracies Because it would centralize large parts of regulation and supervision political arguments focus on the allocation of competences and power However it is not sure if the proposed changes would have any effect in preventing future crises The structure of this paper follows a systematic approach to demonstrate problems with this proposal At first I show in chapter 2 that the role of regulation and governments in the financial crisis is ambiguous What is viewed as market failure was sometimes only a rational response to incentives set by regulation It is often stated that markets did not work efficiently and the obvious solution is to rely on governments and regulators to fix the problems I check if international comparison provides support for consolidating regulatory bodies In Chapter 3 I assess in detail the proposed EU reform that focuses on establishing new bureaucracies and implementing more rules I will use a structured Public Choice approach to evaluate the reform proposal and assess special interests of involved political parties Chapter 4 examines the role of the EU Council and voter preferences Considerable power in the EU decision making process rests with parties that
