The University of Liverpool , University College Chester ,1997 University of Liverpool ,2009 Higher Education in the United Kingdom British Council,1987 Teaching and Learning History Geoff Timmins,Keith Vernon,Christine Kinealy,2005-04-18 This book informed by exceptionally wide inquiry into current history teaching practices in the English speaking world is a real achievement The authors convey current context and challenges with great insight and they move through possibilities in sequencing content skills and assessment without strident comment extending our knowledge of options and pitfalls in the process Peter N Stearns Provost George Mason University Comprehensive persuasive and at all times accessible in style and argument this text both encourages and empowers university historians to review and enhance their teaching practices All key facets of programme development are explored with reference to an extensive and well chosen range of international examples The chapter on the historian s skills and qualities of mind is one of several that I will be referring to frequently Jeanine Graham Senior Lecturer History University of Waikato the varied findings make fascinating reading this book should be required reading for everyone involved in teaching history there is plenty here for us all to learn from ESCalate In providing such a clear informative and thoughtful exploration of the current state of history in higher education and in helping to raise the quality of critical debate about its future this book contributes greatly to the growing scholarship of teaching and learning in the discipline It should also become a vital resource for all historians who wish to honour the old dictum that in teaching as in research the one duty we owe history is to rewrite it Professor Paul Hyland Director of History in the Subject Centre for History Classics and Archaeology E xtremely useful provides a thought provoking and useful discussion concerning the task of actually teaching history at university level This timely book needs to be read widely and the many issues it raises should command our closest attention Higher Education Review Over the last 10 years or so history as an academic discipline has become steeped in controversy and introspection Additional areas of interest have opened up fresh perspectives and approaches have been offered and new teaching and learning strategies have been advocated There has been an increasing emphasis on producing well qualified graduates equipped with the skills knowledge and attitudes to cope with the changing demands of the world of work This book suggests how these issues may be managed The authors identify and discuss the underlying principles and consider ways in which they can be applied at module and programme levels The Teaching Learning in the Humanities series edited by Ellie Chambers and Jan Parker is for beginning and experienced lecturers It deals with all aspects of teaching individual arts and humanities subjects in higher education Experienced teachers offer authoritative suggestions on how to become critically reflective about discipline specific practices Undergraduate Prospectus Liverpool Hope University,2007 On Chester On Graeme J. White,2015-05-19 Although there has been a University of Chester only since 2005 its predecessor Chester College dates back further than most UK universities to 1839 This book celebrates the 175th anniversary of the foundation in 2014 The story is a remarkable one of survival and success The early College was a pioneering venture with a unique approach to learning and the University still houses the first buildings in England specifically designed for the training of teachers Three times in the 1860s the 1930s and the 1970s Chester College came near to closure only repeatedly to emerge intact and to become stronger than before In the early twenty first century the University has a growing reputation within the higher education sector and can claim some of the highest rates of student satisfaction in the country The book s title is taken from the College motto of the late Victorian and Edwardian period as appropriate today as when it was coined
