T.C. Boyle's "The Tortilla Curtain": Urban Conditions, Racism, and Ecological Disaster in Fortress Los Angeles Laura Schomaker, 2014 Los Angeles is famous for its sunny weather for the Hollywood film studios and for being the residence of the rich and beautiful And although or precisely because all this is more illusion than reality the city frequently serves as setting for various pieces of fiction However Los Angeles does not only play a huge role in the media but since lately also in the realm of urban studies Having long been a kind of outsider in the field it is now regarded as a prototypical example for urban development by the L A School In this context its image is less sunny and positive but reveals a deep rooted racism against Latin American immigrants in combination with a fortress mentality on the part of its white population as well as a unique urban ecology in which natural catastrophes seem to be regular occurrences This paper intends to outline the significance of Los Angeles in urban studies and trace the thereby acquired findings in a fictional representation of the city T C Boyle s novel The Tortilla Curtain In the process it is shown how urban conditions racism and nature especially in the form of ecological disasters intersect and influence each other

The Tortilla Curtain T. Coraghessan Boyle, 2015 Mexican-American Relations and T.C. Boyle's "Tortilla Curtain" Simon Brandl, 2016-07-29 Examination Thesis from the year 2015 in the subject American Studies Culture and Applied Geography grade 1 3 University of Marburg language English abstract The main goal of this paper is to address the question if there is any type of socio historical narrative surrounding the state of Mexicans in the United States that might have developed from the very beginnings of Mexican American relations up to contemporary US society and further might find its expression in contemporary American literature using the example of The Tortilla Curtain While the main approach of this paper will be of sociological nature one cannot forgo an examination of the respective political background and events which mostly go hand in hand and show interdependencies Notably related research on this field is relatively scarce Most major works dealing with Mexican American relations and the state of Mexicans within US society focus on specific time periods or address specific contemporary socioeconomic issues of immigration and immigrants but rather lack a comprehensive view that might combine the different strands and lead to a widely spanning narrative about Mexican immigrants in US society In general I will try to develop a narrative that follows the overall course of events in Mexican American history which chapter two will comprise Here I will specifically depict the Mexican American War as an origin of the boundaries we know today and will further provide an in depth study on the 20th century and its waves of migration Chapter three will look at the specific history of Mexican immigration to the United States and will then provide an overview of the contemporary situation of immigrants Subsequently chapter four aims to merge the findings of chapters two and three and examine contemporary literary expressions in Boyle s The Tortilla Curtain Out of the many aspects to be found within the novel I will mainly focus on those relevant in sociological terms Lastly I will try to combine the paper s findings to a potential narrative and discuss the political and sociological future of Mexican American relations Discussion Notes on T.
