Basotho Oral Poetry At the Beginning of the Twenty-first Century Tsiu, William Moruti, 2018-03-28 This book contains a major research into and deep investigation of Basotho language oral poetry in Lesotho at the beginning of the twenty first century. The classical form, the dithoko, which was inspired by tribal wars or battles fought by the Basotho, is explored fully, but the absence of wars and urbanisation, with the economic and social imperatives of modernism, have inspired new forms of poetry. The new forms include dithoko i.e. praise poetry, the difela mine workers' chants, and the diboko, the latter which, as family odes, are still performed in rural areas. The research work involved the live performances of 33 diroki i.e. poets, watched and recorded in their natural environments. The investigators were led by the late Professor Abiola Irele, then of Ohio State University.

It is a first time overview of multilingual teaching and learning strategies that have been tried and tested in a number of higher education institutions in South Africa. Despite language in education policies that extol the virtues of multilingualism, practice remains oriented towards English only learning and teaching. In the multilingual contexts of local campuses, this book shows how students and lecturers attempt to understand their multiple identities and use the available languages to create multilingual learning environments.
