Ijeoma, Ogochukwu I. Nzewi, 2018-12-31 The aim of this scholarly collected work is to contribute to the scientific discourse on public administration in a globalised environment The book reflects on governance challenges in South Africa and in Africa with its point of departure being the master narratives the so called grand debates such as New Public Management and specifically the role of technology It also reflects on the so called middle range discourses concerning organisational level issues in government e.g leadership and work procedures and explores new solutions to old governance challenges like corruption and service delivery The uniqueness of this collected work lies in its ability to reflect on existing philosophies and practices in an innovative way Through its multidisciplinary lens the book opens up a new vision for the future of public administration in the South African context and on the African continent not neglecting the current local regional and global environment Until recently globalisation was considered an entrenched world order but international political events during the course of the past few years have resulted in one of the biggest challenges to its endurance in recent history This includes developments such as the successful referendum in Britain to exit the European Union highlighting the growth of a severe nationalist and protectionist agenda that may be a signal of the unravelling of the current globalism world order These developments inspire deeper interrogation of the challenges to effective public administration globally and the ripple effects in South Africa and Africa as a whole Pointedly it is evident that ensuring the voice of citizens in policy decision making remains a critical governance challenge On the policy front there are perennial challenges of land reform service delivery and poverty while on the governance front corruption has metastasised with a growing culture of impunity and lack of accountability in leadership In the midst of growing corruption and more than 20 years into democracy South Africa's income inequality remains one of the highest in the world This setting constitutes the world seek to promote employment equity and ensure that bureaucracies are representative of the citizenry South Africa offers a rare and fascinating case for exploring what happens to bureaucracies as they undergo demographic transformation Grounded in the theory of representative bureaucracy and using a mixed methods approach this book explores how major changes in the demographics of the South African public service have affected the performance of the institution The empirical analysis offers compelling evidence that representative bureaucracies perform better As public organizations become increasingly representative by hiring historically disadvantaged persons especially Africans their performance improves controlling for a range of factors Evidence indicates representative bureaucracies perform better because they empathize with and advocate for historically disadvantaged communities are equipped with linguistic and cultural competencies to serve a diverse citizenry and can induce compliance cooperation and coproduction Public
