Women, Imagination and the Search for Truth in Early Modern France Rebecca M. Wilkin,2016-12-05 Grounded in medical juridical and philosophical texts of sixteenth and seventeenth century France this innovative study tells the story of how the idea of woman contributed to the emergence of modern science Rebecca Wilkin focuses on the contradictory representations of women from roughly the middle of the sixteenth century to the middle of the seventeenth and depicts this period as one filled with epistemological anxiety and experimentation She shows how skeptics including Montaigne Marie de Gournay and Agrippa von Nettesheim subverted gender hierarchies and or blurred gender difference as a means of questioning the human capacity to find truth while positivists who strove to establish new standards of truth for example Johann Weyer Jean Bodin and Guillaume du Vair excluded women from the search for truth The book constitutes a reevaluation of the legacy of Cartesianism for women as Wilkin argues that Descartes opening of the search for truth even to women was part of his appropriation of skeptical arguments This book challenges scholars to revise deeply held notions regarding the place of women in the early modern search for truth their role in the development of rational thought and the way in which intellectuals of the period dealt with the emergence of an influential female public

Discoveries: Frida Kahlo, Painting Her Own Reality Christina Burrus,2008-04 My painting carries within it the message of pain Frida Kahlo born in 1907 near Mexico City learned about pain at a very early age She contracted polio at six and then at eighteen suffered serious and permanent injury to her right leg and pelvis in a terrible bus accident Young and undaunted she went on to fall in love with the great mural painter Diego Rivera at a time when their native Mexico was going through a period of thrilling political and cultural upheaval Rivera and Kahlo were a legendary couple both were impassioned lifelong communists while fervently attached to traditional Mexican Indian culture and both were driven by a relentless artistic ambition that surmounted all the dramas that plagued their marriage Later Frida became the friend and lover of Leon Trotsky She was greatly admired by the Surrealists and sat for some of the greatest photographers of her day Her art largely consisted of self portraits like the famous paintings The Two Fridas and The Broken Column though she also left many striking still lives In Frida Kahlo Painting Her Own Reality Christina Burrus assesses Frida Kahlo s extraordinary work a maelstrom of cruelty humor candor and insolence reflecting the essence of a free beautiful courageous woman who concealed her physical pain behind peals of infectious laughter Homer, Eakins, and Anshutz: The Search for

American Identity in the Gilded Age Randall C. Griffin,2004 Randall Griffin s book examines the ways in which artists and critics sought to construct a new identity for America during the era dubbed the Gilded Age because of its leaders taste for opulence Artists such as Winslow Homer Thomas Eakins and Thomas Anshutz explored alternative American themes and styles but widespread belief in the superiority of European art led them and their audiences to look to the Old World for legitimacy This rich never resolved contradiction between the native and autonomous on the one hand and on the other the European and borrowed serves as the armature of Griffin's innovative look at how and why the world of art became a key site in the American struggle for identity. Not only does Griffin trace the interplay of issues of nationalism, class and gender in American culture but he also offers insightful readings of key paintings by Eakins and other canonical artists. Further, Griffin shows that by 1900 the nationalist project in art and criticism had helped open the way for the formulation of American modernism. Homer Eakins and Anshutz will be of importance to all those interested in American culture as well as to specialists in art history and art criticism.
