The Second Person Standpoint Morality Respect And Accountability:

The Second-Person Standpoint Stephen Darwall, 2009-09-30 Why should we avoid doing moral wrong The inability of philosophy to answer this question in a compelling manner along with the moral skepticism and ethical confusion that ensue result Stephen Darwall argues from our failure to appreciate the essentially interpersonal character of moral obligation After showing how attempts to vindicate morality have tended to change the subject falling back on nonmoral values or practical first person considerations Darwall elaborates the interpersonal nature of moral obligations their inherent link to our responsibilities to one another as members of the moral community As Darwall defines it the concept of moral obligation has an irreducibly second person aspect it presupposes our authority to make claims and demands on one another And so too do many other central notions including those of rights the dignity of and respect for persons and the very concept of person itself The result is nothing less than a fundamental reorientation of moral theory that enables it at last to account for morality's supreme authority an account that Darwall carries from the realm of theory to the practical world of second person attitudes emotions and actions

The Ethics of Advising Monique Jonas, 2025-01-27 Advising is a common way in which we try to help others but there is no doubt that it can be fraught and even risky Advice can provoke complex and sometimes baffling responses from gratitude or polite indifference through to vociferous resentment As friends family and professional advisors we can worry over what advice to give unsure of what duty requires Beneath these familiar concerns and everyday responses sit complex ethical judgements but to date they have rarely been the subject of philosophical investigation The Ethics of Advising is the first book length examination of the many roles that advice and advising play in our relationships and our moral lives Drawing on the wide range of responses that advice receives Monique Jonas presents a unified illocutionary and ethical account of advice grounded in its character as a form of help with practical reasoning At its heart is a new account of five norms of advice Jonas explores how these norms apply to advice we give in our personal and professional lives and how they mediate our responses to advice and the people who give it Ethical questions concerning power manipulation responsibility and how responsive advice should be to an advisee's goals preferences and values are examined drawing on empirical evidence and a wide range of scholarship The result is a practically grounded theory of the ethics of advising which can be applied in advising friends family and strangers as well as in professional contexts such as law healthcare financial services and policy advice

The Radical Demand in Løgstrup's Ethics Robert Stern, 2019-01-03 How much does ethics demand of us On what authority does it demand it How does what ethics demand relate to other requirements such as those of prudence law and social convention Does ethics really demand anything at all Questions of this sort lie at the heart of the work of the Danish philosopher and theologian K E Løgstrup 1905 1981 and in particular his key text The Ethical Demand 1956 In The Radical Demand in Løgstrup's Ethics Robert Stern offers a full account of that text and situates Løgstrup's distinctive position in relation to Kant Kierkegaard Levinas Darwall and Luther For Løgstrup the ethical situation is primarily one in which the fate of the other person is placed in your hands where it is then your responsibility to do what is best for them The demand therefore does not come from the other person as such as what they ask you to do may be different from what you should do It is also not laid down by social rules nor by God or by any formal principle of practical reason such as Kant's principle of universalizability Rather it comes from what is required to care for the other and the directive power of their needs in the situation Løgstrup therefore rejects accounts of ethical obligation based on the commands of God or on abstract principles governing practical reason or on social norms instead he develops a different picture at the basis of which is our interdependence which he argues gives his ethics a grounding in the nature of life itself

The Philosophy of Protest Jennifer Kling, Megan Mitchell, 2021-11-09 Protest is a critical part of the contemporary political landscape Despite the prevalence of protest as a real world practice most liberal political theory limits its focus on protest to ideal conditions This book takes up the question of how to think about protest from within the context of liberal political theory in the face of serious substantial ongoing and actual injustices in short a theory of protest for our world What can or must protest include What if anything must it avoid Against much of the popular discourse the authors defend the view that suitably constrained violent political protest is sometimes justified Violent political protest is not simply revolution by any other name it's a last ditch effort to remedy injustice without going to war

Sexual Assault Tatjana Hörnle, 2023 This edited volume brings together leading scholars on sexual assault law to discuss the shift towards consent based sexual assault laws It explores the complexities of consent in different jurisdictions with reformed sexual assault laws and analyses their strengths and weaknesses

Morality, Authority, and Law Stephen Darwall, 2013-03-21 Stephen Darwall presents a series of essays that explore and extend the Second Person Standpoints argument that central moral concepts are irreducibly second personal entailing mutual accountability and the authority to address demands to one another and ourselves He illustrates the second personal frameworks power to illuminate a wide variety of issues in moral political and legal philosophy Section I concerns morality its distinctiveness among normative concepts the metaethics of bipolar obligations owed to someone the relation between moral obligations form and the substance of our obligations whether the fact that an action is wrong is itself a reason against action as opposed to simply entailing that sufficient moral reasons independently exist and whether morality requires general principles or might be irreducibly particularistic Section II consists of two essays on autonomy one discussing the relation between Kants autonomy of the will and the right to autonomy and another arguing that what makes an agents desires and will reason giving is not the basis of internal practical reasons in desire but the dignity of persons and shared second personal authority Section III focuses on the nature of authority and the law Two essays take up Joseph Razs influential normal justification thesis and argue that it fails to capture authoritys second personal nature without which authority cannot create exclusionary and preemptive reasons The final two essays concern law The first sketches the insights that a second personal approach can provide into the nature of law and the grounds of distinctions between different parts of law The second shows how a second personal framework can be used to develop the civil recourse theory in the law of torts
