

A Tiger in the Zoo

He stalks in his vivid stripes
The few steps of his cage,
On pads of velvet quiet,
In his quiet rage.

He should be lurking in shadow,
Sliding through long grass
Near the water hole
Where plump deer pass

He should be snarling around houses
At the jungle's edge,
Baring his white fangs, his claws,
Terrorising the village!

But he's locked in a concrete cell,
His strength behind bars,
Stalking the length of his cage,
Ignoring visitors

He hears the last voice at night,
The patrolling cars,
And stares with his brilliant eyes
At the brilliant stars.

Davies, 1991 This is a pioneering study of the life and work of the Welsh born poet and short story writer Leslie Norris His life from his Merthyr upbringing to lecturing in England to a distinguished university career in the USA is examined in connection with his development as a writer In his early days much influenced by Dylan Thomas Wordsworth and others he later found his own literary voice in beautifully crafted stories and poems and in more recent years spare compressed poem sequences which speak of the modern world with piercing and at times pessimistic force This account corrects the mistaken perception of Norris as a misplaced Georgian and shows him to be a moving complex disconcerting and important modern writer The Complete Poems Leslie Norris, 2008 This landmark publication of over 300 poems is a testament to a publishing life of more than sixty years The late Leslie Norris who died in 2007 at the age of 86 was best known as a nature poet and elegist of passion and rare expression Lyrical and individual to his closely observed poems each word weighed and in its correct place Norris introduces a strong metaphysical element which makes the poems as Edward Lucie Smith noted much larger than the sum of their parts Arranged chronologically and including poems never before published the reader follows the development of Norris s subjects and style from an early enthrallment with Dylan Thomas through the mediation of Edward Thomas and Robert Frost to the percolation of American styles which resulted from Norris spending the last twenty years of his life in Utah He paints a vivid poetic world full of striking descriptive detail and extraordinarily realised people Whether it is his native south Wales the southern England of his early working life or the majesty of the American west Norris is fully engaged with his surroundings and their import To this core The Complete Poems adds Norris s renderings of Welsh poet Dafydd ap Gwilym and poems for children to make available the full range of this marvellous writer and his enduring work BOOK JACKET The American Humanities Index Stephen H.
