

A photograph of a sunset over a rocky beach. The sky is a gradient of orange and yellow, transitioning into a darker blue at the horizon. The ocean is visible on the left, with white foam from waves crashing against the shore. The foreground is dominated by dark, jagged rocks. A semi-transparent black box with white text is centered over the image.

The universe is just one big happy tapestry of tangled relationships that can never be unraveled. There is no chair here, butterfly there; particle here, void there; time here, gravity there. There is only the picture that emerges from all pulling together, a great mosaic that seems unrecognizable close up, but comes into focus as we stand back and observe from a more distant, and broader, perspective.
