Welding With Children Stories:

Welding with Children Tim Gautreaux, 2009-01-06 A master storyteller's triumphant moving short fiction collection about lost souls found love and rediscovered tradition Gautreaux's offbeat characters and infectious storyteller's tone put you in mind of Eudora Welty in a John Deere cap or maybe Flannery O'Connor before she got religion Whatever direction this greatly talented writer turns to next you'll want to follow him every step of the way Kirkus Reviews Tim Gautreaux returns to the form that won him his first fans with tales of family sin and redemption from a man who realizes his grandchildren are growing up without any sense of right or wrong and he's to blame to a camera repairman who uncovers a young woman's secret in the undeveloped film she brings him to a one armed hitch hiker who changes the life of the man who gives her a ride Each one a small miracle of storytelling and compassion these stories in Welding with Children are a joyous confirmation of Tim Gautreaux's rare and generous talent Insightful and delightful stories from the heart of Cajun country Gautreaux has mastered the illusion of letting a story flow in such a natural way that it seems to tell itself His economy of language is truly impressive as he creates realistic multifaceted characters and complex situations in the space of a few pages Highly recommended Library Journal Move Garrison Keillor's Lake Wobegon stories to Louisiana add heat and Tabasco and the result would be Welding With Children The Atlanta Journal Constitution Gautreaux has perfect pitch it's his fiction's coarse incongruities epitomized by the book's title that prove the limitless possibilities of limited geography The New York Times Book Review
