Intercultural Communication and International Students Anastassia Zabrodskaja ,Jiayi Wang,2025-12-17 With internationalization high on the agenda of education providers worldwide the complex relationship between intercultural communication and the international student phenomenon deserves close study Being an international student is a great opportunity to be exposed to a new language and culture and to develop intercultural communication skills Traditionally the phrase international students refers to those who undertake all or part of their education in a country other than their own For present purposes though we adopt a broad definition of the phrase to include transnational education TNE students who are often regarded as international students by their awarding institutions The number of international students pursuing tertiary education reached 6.3 million in 2020 up from 2 million in 2000 and this number continues to grow UNESCO Institute of Statistics 2023 The recent decade has also seen a tremendous expansion of TNE especially during the COVID 19 pandemic both in terms of size and scale TNE is the delivery of education in a country other than the one in which the degree granting institution is based TNE takes many diverse forms including dual degrees joint institutes and international branch campuses to name but a few In many cases students can get a foreign degree without ever leaving their home country or region Research on international students is often scattered across different disciplines including communication education psychology and language and linguistics The field of intercultural communication a term often used interchangeably with cross cultural communication investigates how people from different cultural backgrounds communicate The combination of intercultural communication and international students is a broad and fascinating topic of research Extant research on the topic has mainly focused on the following areas international students perceptions of intercultural communication the difficulties faced by international students and the correlations between different variables e g intercultural communication competence and effectiveness intergroup anxiety intercultural sensitivity attitude towards other cultures meta stereotypes sensation seeking ethnocentrism empathy mindfulness and motivation to engage in intercultural communication These studies have offered valuable insights into the predictors of intercultural communication competence and effectiveness and the pathways for developing this competence and effectiveness However intercultural communication and international students is a complex topic that requires a multifaceted approach that transcends disciplinary boundaries Research on the topic is lagging behind the growth of student numbers and there are many gaps and underexplored areas For example TNE students have rarely been studied from an intercultural communication perspective and international students perceptions of intercultural communication are much less explored than those of faculty and home students Additionally while academic advising has been found to be vital to international student success academic advisers have reported a lack of institutional training on how to deal with international students The actual intercultural interactions of and with international students have rarely been studied in detail Against this background this Research Topic seeks to create interdisciplinary dialogue and cooperation exploring the gaps and underexamined areas of intercultural communication and international students Themes to be addressed include but are not limited to the following language and communication intercultural communication competence and effectiveness intercultural interaction international student experience transnational education TNE internationalization

Beautiful Wasteland Rebecca J. Kinney, 2016-10-18 According to popular media and scholarship, Detroit, the once vibrant city that crumbled with the departure of the auto industry is where dreams can be reborn It is a place that like America itself is gritty and determined It has faced the worst kind of adversity and supposedly now it's back But what does this narrative of new Detroit leave out Beautiful Wasteland reveals that the contemporary story of Detroit's rebirth is an upcycled version of the American Dream which has long imagined access to work home and upward mobility as race neutral projects They're not As Rebecca J Kinney shows the narratives of Detroit's rise decline and potential to rise again are deeply steeped in material and ideological investments in whiteness By remapping the narratives of contemporary Detroit through an extension of America's frontier mythology Kinney analyzes a cross section of twentieth and twenty first century cultural locations an Internet forum ruin photography advertising documentary film and print and online media She illuminates how the stories we tell about Detroit as a frontier of possibility enable the erasure of white privilege and systemic racism By situating Detroit as a beautiful wasteland both desirable and distressed this shows how the narrative of ruin and possibility form a mutually constituted relationship the city is possible precisely because of its perceived ruin Beautiful Wasteland tackles the key questions about the future of postindustrial America As cities around the country reckon with their own postindustrial landscapes Rebecca Kinney cautions that development that elides considerations of race and class will only continue to replicate uneven access to the city for the poor working class and people of color
