Taking Literature and Language Learning Online Sandra Stadler-Heer, Amos Paran, 2022-10-20 The use of literary texts in language classrooms is firmly established but new questions arise with the transfer to remote teaching and learning How do we teach literature online How do learners react to being taught literature online Will new genres emerge from the COVID 19 pandemic Is the literary canon changing This volume celebrates the vitality of literary and pedagogic responses to the pandemic and presents research into the phenomena observed in this evolving field One strand of the book discusses literary outputs stimulated by the pandemic as well as past pandemics Another strand looks at the pedagogy of engaging learners with literature online examining learners of different ages and of different proficiency levels and different educational backgrounds including teacher education Finally a third strand looks at the affordances of various technologies for teaching online and the way they interact with literature and with language learning The contributions in this volume take literature teaching online away from static lecturing strategies present numerous options for online teaching and provide research based grounding for the implementation of these pedagogies

WTF? Tim O'Reilly, 2017-10-10 Can we master the technologies we create before they master us A

punchy and provocative assessment by one of Silicon Valley's sharpest observers Financial Times WTF can be an expression of amazement or of dismay and today's technology elicits both reactions In this book Tim O'Reilly dubbed the Oracle of Silicon Valley by Inc magazine explores the upsides and potential downsides of today's WTF technologies What is the future when an increasing number of jobs can be performed by intelligent machines instead of people or done only by people in partnership with those machines What happens to our consumer based societies to workers and the companies that depend on their purchasing power Is income inequality and unemployment an inevitable consequence of technological advancement or are there paths to a better future What will happen to business when technology enabled networks and marketplaces are better at deploying talent than traditional companies How should companies organize themselves to take advantage of these new tools What's the future of education when on demand learning outperforms traditional institutions How can individuals adapt and retrain Will the fundamental social safety nets of the developed world survive the transition and if not what will replace them O'Reilly is the man who can really can make a whole industry happen according to former Google CEO Eric Schmidt and for decades he's identified and helped shape our response to emerging technologies with world shaking potential from the World Wide Web to Big Data and AI Here he shares the techniques he's used at O'Reilly Media to anticipate innovation waves and provides a framework for thinking about how current innovations are changing the nature of business education government financial markets and the economy as a whole He helps us understand how the parts of digital businesses work together to create marketplace advantage and customer value and why ultimately they cannot succeed unless their ecosystem succeeds along with them O'Reilly exhorts businesses to DO MORE with technology rather than just using it to cut costs and enrich their shareholders Robots are going to take our jobs they say O'Reilly replies Only if that's what we ask them to do Technology is the solution to human problems and we won't run out of work till we run out of problems Whether technology brings the WTF of wonder or the WTF of dismay isn't inevitable It's up to us A compelling narrative of how technology interweaves with the real world If it can cajole even a few tech titans to dwell on the social and political impact of what they do then it will have served a useful purpose Financial Times WTF is a book about technology as it was as it is and as it could be It is told from the perspective of someone who has been personally present at the most important moments in the fast paced history of tech and who played a significant role in those moments Please do read this book Cory Doctorow Boing Boing The Virginia Quarterly Review ,2015
